Wood Dust promises you a rich program that includes talks and masterclasses by leading Australian and international craftspeople, the Australian Wood Review Studio Furniture 2018 exhibition of fine woodworking at the Bungendore Woodworks Gallery, a tool marketplace featuring visiting tool makers from around the globe and of course some country hospitality

Come and immerse yourself in all things woodworking

Wood Dust — The Australian International Timber and Woodworking Festival is an authentically new, independently organised woodworking event held in the Australian woodworking heartland of Bungendore and Queanbeyan, Southern NSW.

For five days Bungendore and Queanbeyan will be the centre of the woodworking world as local and international celebrities descend for a series of 'yarns', woodworking masterclasses, and a world class fine furniture exhibition all topped off with a timber & tool marketplace that you won't want to miss. The festival will take place across a number of venues:

Wood Dust Masterclasses

Wood Dust Masterclasses

If you're new to woodworking or a seasoned veteran, a Wood Dust Masterclass is the ideal way to gain new skills or strengthen existing ones. Save yourself the frustration of battling it out alone in the workshop reinventing the wheel: a masterclass will help you streamline your learning experience.

In Queanbeyan, from 17–19 October, daily masterclasses will run at the Dunstone Design Workshops featuring North American and Australian woodworking masters including Michael Fortune, Andy Buck, Matt Kenney, Vic Tesolin, Ross Annels and Bern Chandley. There are a variety of masterclasses available to suit all interests, skill levels and budgets.

Our Short Masterclasses provide woodworkers with a range of unique opportunities, with courses including sharpening blades and chisels, hand tools and their use, carving and Japanese woodworking, as well as contemporary woodworking topics such as workshop photography, Instagram and YouTube.

Dunstone Design is one of Australia's leading fine furniture workshops. It is arguably the best equipped small batch production wood workshop in Australia, with more than 650 square metres of modern workspace and a gallery space that is open to the public. The Dunstone Design team is led by Churchill Fellow and Master Craftsman Evan Dunstone, co-founder of Wood Dust.

Yarns at The Q

Wood Dust invites you to join us for a series of evening 'yarns'. Each evening kicks off with an hour of interviews before a Q&A styled discussion.

The first evening in the series of Yarns at The Q starts with "A Maker's Life" hosted by our own Kerryn Carter and featuring legendary North American furniture maker Michael Fortune, American furniture artist and educator Andy Buck and Fine Woodworking magazine editor and writer Matt Kenney. On the Q&A panel we have Melbourne based master craftsman Bern Chandley and from Canberra, emerging wood artist and designer, Chelsea Lemon.

The second evening "The Tool Makers" features North American toolmaking legend Thomas Lie Nielsen, technical adviser to Veritas and Lee Valley Canada Vic Tesolin and Australian toolmakers Terry Gordon of HNT Gordon Classic Planes and Kevin Inkster founder of Arbortech. The panel features Chris Vesper of Vesper Tools and Australian carver and woodworking educator Carol Russell.

As a member of the audience you can engage directly with our speakers – ask your burning question! And join us afterwards for a drink in the foyer where you can chat and mingle with our guests. There will also be some great door prizes each night, courtesy of our sponsors.

Timber & Tool Marketplace

The Timber & Tool Marketplace will run over the weekend of the 20th and 21st at the Bungendore Showgrounds and will be an educational and entertaining celebration of the craft.

Visit the 'Meet the Makers' stand where you can chat face to face with our woodworking special guests such as Michael Fortune, Matt Kenney and Vic Tesolin and talk shop with tool makers Tom Lie Nielsen and Terry Gordon. 'The Village' offers you the chance to take in a free demonstration, or be part of a woodworking workshop.

If you prefer to take it easy, why not try your hand at axe throwing with the team from Maniax; or kick back with a beverage and some live music alongside the Luthier's Lane performance stage—there'll be plenty of good food, coffee and craft beer on tap.

And for those prepared to make a slight fool of themselves for the chance to win some great prizes by Promac and Capital Brewing, we also have the world's first Air Woodworking tournament! Don't miss out on the all the fun.

And if you want to stock up on timber or tools, all the best retailers will be at the marketplace.

Parking will be available at the Bungendore Showgrounds with gold coin donation. There will also be shuttle buses running to and from the Bungendore Wood Works Gallery in the town centre via the Bungendore train station to the festival.

As an extra treat, on the Saturday afternoon (20th October), The Australian Wood Review Studio Furniture 2018 exhibition will open at the Bungendore Wood Works Gallery. This exhibition will showcase the best makers from both Australia and New Zealand – an event not to be missed.
